

day and houre enduring for euer : whereunto is added diuers
and sundry very necessarie Tables.

¶ The figure of this present Table Ephemeride, you may know what Planet ra'gneth at euery houre, both of the day and of the night. Imprimis, you shall marke and consider, that according to the hournes of the said Planets, the day beginneth at the rising of the Sunne, and the night at the going downe of the Sunne: in what soeuer season it be. In this Table are eight Pillers, euery one containing xxv lines. In the first Piller on the left hand, you shall finde aboue the same word Hournes. And vpon euery one of the seuen other Pillers following, that there is one of these Letters ensuing: A. B. C. D. E. F. G. This word Hournes, which you shall finde vpon the first Pillar on the left hand, signifieth the hournes: And the same Pillar serueth to finde the hournes both of the day and of the night, which are xxxij. in number. The other seuen Letters that are vpon the seuen other Pillers, doo signifie the seuen dayes of the weeke. That is to say, the Letter A. Sunday. The B. Monday. The C. Tuesday. The D. Wednesday. The E. Thursday. The F. Friday. The G. Saturday. Now to finde what Planet raigneth on euery houre of the night: take the same Letter which signifieth your purposed day, and so come downward, till you be ouer against the sayd houre that you shall finde in the first Pillar. And the marke which you shall finde euen there, sheweth the Planet that raigneth of the same. And euen this day, and from houre to houre consequently euer and euer moze,

First, you must know what is Prime or Golden number, and with it you must worke after

First, you must know what is Prime or Golden number, and with it you must worke after this sort: Seeke in the Calendar the day of the moneth, and legin at the number right against it, and tell so many downwarde, as you haue dayes in your moneth, then marke that number you finde there. And seeke the Prime of that yeere, and begin at the number that is against it, and tell so many downwarde as the number was that you marked before, and where that endeth, against it you shall finde the signe in the which the Moone is that day: as for example. The Golden number this present yeere of our Lorde 1598, is 3, that I keepe in minde all the yeere. Now if I desire to knowe in what signe the Moone is the first daye of Maye, I seeke May in the Table, and against it I finde the number of 8. And because it is the first daye of the Moone, I tell no further: with that 8. in my minde, I seeke the Prime which is 3. and againe it is 1. which I meddle not withall, but there I begin, and tell downwarde, untill I haue tolde 8. which was in my minde before, and there is 1. against which is written Cancer. And therefore I knowe that on the first daye of Maye the Moone is in Cancer. Likewise if you will knowe in what signe the Moone is the 20. day of August this present yeere, seeke August, and against it if you shall finde 18. where you must begin to tell downwarde to the ende. And then from the top downwarde againe, till you haue tolde 20. and so you shall finde there 10. which beare in minde. Then goe to 3. the Golden number, and beginning at 1. that is against it, tell downwarde 10. wher you shall finde 10. against which you shall finde Leo. and therefore be sure, that the twentieth day of August, the Moone is in Leo. But in the yeere of our Lorde 1599. wherein the Golden number is 4. worke likewise, and you shall finde that the Moone is in Sagittarius. And in the yeere of our Lorde 1600. the Prime beinge 6. you shall finde by the operation the Moone to be in aries the same daye. So that this rule is perpetuall, and certaine, so that you make wel the Golden number of the yeere at you seeke: for, and then worke accordinglye as is aboue taught: for by the former examples you may with little studie be able to seeke in what signe the Moone is, or was, or shall be. any day of any yeere present, past or to come, so that you knowe what is the Prime or Golden number of that yeere that you seeke.
